Short Description

Pendant bars are extremely popular, offering the chance to add that wow factor to a kitchen island or dining room when hung over the table. They provide a good source of light that focuses the attention to a specific area making it feel warm and cosy. They are also designed to look good when they are off adding a nice touch of style.

Modern Is not always what people expect, it uses clean crisp lines in a simple colour palette, the word here is "sleek", it will often use metal, silver or steel to great effect where the beauty is in the simplicity and less fuss. Whilst modern is not minimal if you find this range too stark for your tastes we would recommend "Modern Transitional" which brings more classic shapes up to date with a modern edge in it's design .

Top Tip: Most pendant bars can have the height adjusted so you can find the height that suits you best.
