Short Description

Pendant bars are extremely popular, offering the chance to add that wow factor to a kitchen island or dining room when hung over the table. They provide a good source of light that focuses the attention to a specific area making it feel warm and cosy. They are also designed to look good when they are off adding a nice touch of style.

Contemporary is often confused with modern, contemporary is about now and what's on trend. It does not conform to the simple or straight lines of modern. It uses more colour and can draw upon other styles such as a retro feel or maybe an industrial style. It can also mix material not often found in modern designs such as fabric or even crystal.

Top Tip: Most pendant bars can have the height adjusted so you can find the height that suits you best.
