Short Description

Pendant bars are extremely popular, offering the chance to add that wow factor to a kitchen island or dining room when hung over the table. They provide a good source of light that focuses the attention to a specific area making it feel warm and cosy. They are also designed to look good when they are off adding a nice touch of style.

Transitional draws both on traditional classic shapes and mixes it with a more modern design. Probably the most popular styling today, transitional is warmer and not as plain or simple as true modern, which tends to be almost minimal or stark in contrast.

It creates a feeling of both stylish and sleek with more detail than minimal modern fittings that is well suited to many styles of rooms and it also compliments many furniture styles both modern and classic.

Top Tip: Most pendant bars can either have the height adjusted so you can find the height that suits you best.
